OUR VALUES

Total development means that we do not only teach academic skills, but also spiritual and physical care.

Integrity means that we render a professional service, by building trust relationships with parents and children and maintaining high ethical standards.

Innovation means that we teach problem-solving techniques. We do not develop parrots, but confident children that can think for themselves and contribute to society.

We maintain high standards of discipline, both in the education of our children and in the management of the school. Quality is ingrained as a main value in each of our children and teachers. Not only do we deliver a high-quality service, but we emphasize quality in each child to prepare them for a life where quality is a priority.

Our positive outlook and quality of education ensures that our parents and children can associate themselves with the school with pride. We are enthusiastic and never ask why something cannot be done, but rather "How can it be done?"

We are committed to the active involvement of parents and children in the management of the school. We empower our children, parents, and staff to reach the high standards that we expect from them, and we build relationships on mutual trust.
